Submitted on: 01/03/2021, Reference number: 2021042

End date: 01/06/2021

Job Description:

On behalf of a Faculty of Medicine in Switzerland, we are looking for anaesthesiologists for three professor positions. The start date is August first, 2021. This academic centre is looking for specialists who would like to assume the role of professor of general anaesthesiology, professor of pain therapy and outpatient anaesthesiology and professor of cardiac, thoracic and vascular anaesthesiology. The professors will be in charge of their respective department in the hospital. Together they form the Departmental Board of Anaesthesiology.

The successful candidates will be engaged in PhD research in neuro-anaesthesia, visceral anaesthesiology, gynaecological or urological anaesthesia or emergency anaesthesia. In addition, you will manage a research program and take an active role in the education of students, interns and registrars.

The successful candidates have a specialist title, clinical experience, special competences in anaesthesiology and a sub-specialty. You are an experienced in medical research and in obtaining third party funding for the Department. Particularly important for this position is a high degree of integration capacity, a willingness to collaborate with the surgical disciplines and a sense of overarching goals. In addition, a marked ability and enjoyment of maintaining external relationships with external hospitals and referring physicians and local, national and international specialist associations is essential for this position.

Candidates with a good command of the German language, both in speech and in writing, are preferred. For this position, candidates must have good communication and collaboration skills. Preferably, candidates have several years of work experience, but this is not a requirement.

The employer offers attractive terms of employment.
